VOLUME 1. MAYSVILLE, THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 26, 1882. NUMBER 282.

Down They Go.

Meaning the prices of job printing. The following low rates will hereafter rule at the BULLETIN Job Printing Rooms. They are the lowest ever offered in this city by any printing establishment. The reduction does not mean careless printing and inferior stock, but on the contrary first-class press-work and composition and the best quality of paper:

Bill Heads per ream.....	$5 00
Two Reams.....	9 00
Letter Heads per ream.....	4 50
Packet Note Heads per ream.....	3 00
Commercial Note Heads per ream.....	2 75
Envelopes per thousand.....	3 00
Visiting Cards fifty.....	25c

And other printing at proportionately low prices. Rosser & McCarthy.

Mrs. Langtry's Beauty.
Boston Herald.
"Shall we be disappointed in Mrs. Langtry's beauty?"
"No."
"Yes."
"No."
Mme. Modjeska's "no" came first. She added: "Mrs. Langtry is a beautiful woman when her face is in repose. She has beautiful hair and eyes and nose and—"
"But not a beautiful mouth," interpolated the second speaker, for Mme. Modjeska was in the midst of a company of actors. "Her mouth is coarse, out of harmony with the rest of the face, and is its most expressive feature, unhappily. Then Americans like much facial expression, and Mrs. Langtry has not mobile features. Her beauty is of the statuesque order. The head is fine and exquisitely poised on the shoulders."
"I call her a flesh and blood beauty, instead of sculptural," said the third speaker, enthusiastically. "She has perfect health. She always looks as fresh and sweet as though just from sleep and a bath. The exquisite coloring of skin, hair and eyes to me make her chief charm."

Not Gwendolen's Foot
Chicago Tribune.
"You have stepped on my foot!"
The murmuring zephyrs of a June morning were kissing with dewy breath the rose bushes that were soon to burst forth in a wealth of bud and blossom; the twitter, of the robin and the meadow lark rose cheerily upon the cool, fresh air that came from beyond the hilltops in the west and athwart the eastern sky faint bands of crimson light, rosy harbingers of the golden flood that was to come, made a vivid contrast to the deep blue of the zenith, while over all was spread the solemn hush that comes before breakfast.
"You are mistaken, darling," said Gwendolen Mahaffy, looking up tenderly at Perciles Perkins; "it was the horse."
"Perhaps you are right," the man replied, stroking the neck of the horse—a beautiful Norman that weighed nearly a ton—"but it would have deceived even a more trusting heart than mine."

The Ambassadors from Madagascar.
Pall Mall Gazette.
The Ambassadors from Madagascar wear European costume, black frock coats, and silk hats; they are from forty to fifty years of age, and the hair of the chief of the mission is turning gray. They are all of dark complexion, and a journal of Marseilles, where they have landed, describes their manners as those of English gentlemen, "cold and correct."

In a Dakota forest last week a party of hunters discovered a man who had a well-developed tail nine inches in length. They told their discovery when they returned to town, but failed to state that the tail was the tail of a squirrel. The posse of 24 young men who went out to capture the tailed man, on returning paid the beer, but said thought the method of obtaining it was about as contemptible as any they ever heard of.

When a market man looks in on a citizen at his country house of a fine October Sunday morning and asks: "Do you want a dozen squirrels of a brace of partridges to-day?" the chances are he has such game to sell and thinks the citizen may want them for dinner. But a suspicious person, overhearing the remark, would be apt to wonder if that citizen was in the habit of going hunting Sundays.

It is currently reported that Bushong, the base ball catcher, is to retire from the ball playing business, and it is said that he is soon to begin the practice of dentistry. Great Caesar's ghost. Just imagine what he'd do to a man, if he happened to forget himself, and thought he was throwing to himself instead of tinkering a tooth.

Late Fashion Items.
Prune de monsieur is the name of the new French shade of mauve.
The very handsome shade of red now in vogue is made odious by calling it sang de bœuf.
White "Indiana" silk is a sheeny material much used for evening dress for young girls.
Black will be very fashionably worn all summer, handsome toilets of silk, satin or grenadine being profusely trimmed with jet bands, special ornaments and jetted-lace, or relieved by a bright color, as preferred.
Beautiful wash-costumes are made of sheer high-colored ecru batiste, or Saxony muslin, the skirt being trimmed with embroidered flounces and kiltings and the waist with embroidered bands and narrow flounces to match.
Jaunty-looking corsages for young girls are shown, made of tinted satin, to be worn over skirts of white surah, nuns' veiling, or French muslin, adorned with embroideries. They are high at the throat, with Marguerite sleeves reaching to the elbow. In front they are open all the way down, but laced together over a chemisette of silk-embroidered tulle, with silken cords the color of the corsage material. For older persons this style is reproduced in fabrics of velvet or moire.
The tight-fitting habit basque of Pekin, or, in other words, of satin and velvet stripe alternating, is still a garment that meets with much favor, many ladies not caring for the "independent" jacket of moire, while those of brocade, whether of silk or velvet, have been literally "done to death." The Pekin fabric, if not new, has never become so commonly worn, and has also the indubitable merit of wearing admirably.
A very handsome carriage costume is made of fawn-colored French cashmere, with pointed corsage and Watteau tunic, over and underskirt of dark fawn-colored moire, box-plaited to the waist. A long Spanish carriage cloak of fawn-colored wigogne is lined with scarlet satin, with elegant trimmings of fawn-colored and bronze chenille around the neck, and oddly-shaped sleeves. The bonnet, of golden fawn-colored straw, is trimmed with surah of a shade to match and a cluster of scarlet ostrich tips, veiled by three drooping ostrich tips of fawn color tipped with bronze.
For skirt trimmings one wide flounce headed by several small ones, two narrow knife-plaited flills, headed by a wide, falling bouillonne, and several small flounces, or the skirt covered to the knees by alternate narrow ruffles and puffings, are the favorite styles. Above these skirt trimmings—set on in whatever manner they may be—is the inevitable scarf, draped around straight a la Espagnole, or shirred in the center and arranged en panier. In very rich materials the skirt is usually plain, the only trimming consisting of a full wide garniture around the bottom, three puffings, with a fluted edge each way, a double box-plaited flounce lined with a contrasting color, or a coquille ruche, feathery and full, being three popular modes of forming this trimming.—N. Y. Evening Post.
—Melons, in their season, suggests the New-England Farmer, ought to be plenty on every farmer's table. They require no cooking, make an ever-welcome desert, and are not only better and cheaper, but more wholesome than much of the pastry which they would or might replace.
—Michael Davitt is a tall, rosy-cheeked man, with a short, black mustache and close-trimmed side whiskers. His right sleeve hangs empty at his side.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 26, 1882.

TERMS:—The EVENING BULLETIN is published daily, and served free of postage at 6 cents per week; 25 cents per month; 75 cents per three months; $1.50 per six months, and $3 per year, payable in advance.

THE EVENING BULLETIN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION IN THIS CITY, CHESTER AND ABERDEEN, OHIO, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN MAYSVILLE.

Public Speaking.

The Hon. John G. Carlisle will address the people of this city and county at the court house in Maysville, on Thursday evening, October 26th, at 7 o'clock. Everybody is invited to come and hear this distinguished Democrat.

THE detectives who are investigating the Ross murder, at Glendale, Ohio, have discovered another important link in the chain of evidence, in the form of a pair of blood-stained pantaloons at the house of the senior Captain.

THE report started by Republican newspapers that the ex-Confederate soldiers of this district are luke-warm in their support of Col. Hurt for Congress is a falsehood. He has no warmer friends among Democratic voters than the men who fought against him in the late war. He was a brave soldier, a magnanimous and honorable man. Confederates never turn their backs upon that kind of Democrats.

THE Kentucky New Era is troubled over the prospect of "James Guano Blaine," as it is pleased to call him, being our next President. The New Era should possess its soul in peace and wait until the proper time comes for it to begin its dirty, low flings. Just now it is rather premature.—New Republican.

We are grieved to say that our esteemed contemporary the New Era is somewhat at fault. It should have respectfully dubbed the distinguished gentleman by his true name the Hon. James Mulligan Letters Blaine.

CAPT. CULBERTSON, like Guiteau, is a Stalwart of Stalwarts, and as such receives the cordial support of the "independent" young editor of the New Republican, who some months ago announced with a rat-a-tat-tat of trumpets his design of putting himself on a plane above the factions of the Republican party with a view of establishing a "New Republican" organization. His party, however, is still doing business at the old stand and the brilliant young editor has played Hades on his watch.

THE Western Tobacco Journal says: From our traveling correspondent, Mr. W. E. Pettit, we learn that "old" Mason is nobly sustaining a reputation which she has maintained from the time White Burley was first introduced to our manufacturers. A large crop has been housed this year in that county, and promises to turn out a large quantity of the finer grades, Mason county, Kentucky, planters have for years sustained and earned a reputation that insures their tobacco a ready market at remunerative prices.

MRS. LANGTRY is thus described by the Cincinnati Commercial:

She is a native of the Island of Jersey, the daughter of a Church of England clergyman, a woman of good antecedents and worthy of them, whose adoption of the stage as a profession augments the respect in which it is held by persons jealous for its good repute. Mrs. Langtry takes great parts, Rosalind in "As You Like It," for example, and, judging from newspaper reports which reach us, with the success due to intelligence and hard work, if not genius. She is described as a dignified and graceful woman, whose carriage and manners indicate truly her familiarity with the best society in England. Her position as an actress, taken at a later period in life than common, has not abated her dignified reserve. Mrs. Langtry is known as "the Jersey Lily," a compliment to her very remarkable physical attractions, which are the subject of numerous pictures and descriptions. She adopted the histrionic profession as a matter of business, with the intention of making money. Her father is dependent, and Mrs. Langtry is understood to have studied for the stage with the view to earn the means of promoting his comfort in his old age.

THE wise young editor of the New Republican in commenting on the BULLETIN's statement that Col. Hurt is in favor of relieving the people of all the unnecessary taxation imposed by the Republican party, remarks, referring to the working men of the country, that if such a thing was done: "A majority of them would in all probability, be compelled to either become farmers or farmers' employees. The great cities, the home of these workingmen and the points where farm products are received and disposed of, would become depopulated, there would be no demand for the increased production, and we would be a nation of farmers, and everybody knows what that means."

The young editor is informed that if it should so happen that many of the workingmen who now crowd all the large cities should become farmers or farmers' employees, it would be a hundred fold better for them and for those who are dependent upon their labor for support. As it is, under the so called "protection" granted to the millionaire manufacturers by the Republican party the majority of the operatives employed by them are half starved and not one in ten thousand receives a just equivalent for his labor. This failure to get from these "protection barons" a price for their labor, sufficient to keep soul and body together, is what has caused the many strikes in this country the present year in which thousands of workmen have been engaged and in which millions of money have been wasted. This is the fruit of the Republican policy of protection, and should it be the means of driving any considerable number of these starving working men to the farms in the country it will be about the best result we know of Republican legislation, since that corrupt party has ruled the destinies of this country. As farmers or as farmers' employees, honest and industrious men are at least sure of a livelihood, which is not to be had in the cities where they are at the mercy of the managers of the so-called "protected" industries.

FRANKFORT.

Troops to be Sent to Ashland to Protect Neal and Craft.

Courier-Journal.

FRANKFORT, Oct. 24.—The Governor received the following telegram from Judge Brown this morning in reference to the Neal and Craft trials:

"CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Oct. 24.—Gov. L. P. Blackburn: The trials of Neal and Craft are set for the 27th day of this month. The Sheriff will be in Lexington on the 27th to bring them here. Can you furnish guards for that time?" "GEORGE N. BROWN, Judge."

In response to an interrogation concerning his intention, the Governor said he would of course furnish the troops, and enough of them to preserve unsullied the honor of the state, which does and ought to guarantee to persons under arrest a fair and impartial trial by due process of law. He says he thinks he will order to the front on that occasion the McCreary Guards of this city, the Lexington Guards, the Maysville Guards, the Blackburn Guards, of Midway, and perhaps a section of the Louisville Light Artillery.

These will compose about 130 men in addition to the artillerymen, which Gen. Nuckols says may possibly be taken from this city instead of Louisville.

The question of transportation of the troops has been satisfactorily settled between the Adjutant General and the Auditor, who refused to pay a bill of $600 for their transportation to Catlettsburg on the last trial of these men, on the ground that the law did not explicitly authorize the payment. An agreed case was had in order that the Auditor might be sustained; the circuit court granted a writ of mandamus, which the superior court affirmed, and now the troops can boldly move forward without the fear that they will have to pay their own transportation.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880. DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

[STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me its will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects. Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 26, 1882.

THE soldier boys are under arms
And ready, every man,
To take the field with fearless front,
Against the lawless clan;
To keep supreme Kentucky laws,
Though danger may be great,
And with their blood, unsullied keep
The honor of the state.

FIRE! FIRE!!

Four Business Blocks at Hopkinsville, Ky., Burned by Incendiarists.

Loss Two Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Special to the DAILY BULLETIN.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., Oct. 26, 1882: A terrible disaster by fire occurred here last night. Four of the most important business houses in the center of the city were fired by incendiarists and totally destroyed. The loss is estimated to be $200,000.

The steamer Katie Stockdale is now running in the place of the Telegraph.

JOHN MANN was shot and wounded in the left breast by Ed. Evans, at Ripley, one day this week.

JASPER BRADSHAW, aged fifty-nine years, of Nicholas county, was killed a few days ago by the kick of a horse.

PROF. W. L. YERKES, a school teacher at Paris, was shot and wounded by Homer Oldson, a pupil fifteen years of age.

FRANK DERBY, a conductor on the Kentucky Central was run over and killed by a train near Demossville, last Saturday.

THE Hon. John G. Carlisle arrived this morning and will certainly speak at the court house this evening. The ladies are cordially invited to honor the occasion by their presence.

THE aggregate loss by an incendiary fire at Lexington, on Monday, was $20,000, partly covered by insurance. Twenty mules and seventeen short horn cattle valued at $10,000 were burned.

Do not forget that the Hon. John G. Carlisle, one of the most distinguished public men of the day, will speak at the courthouse this evening. Every voter in this neighborhood should hear him.

DURING a display of fire works at Philadelphia, yesterday, seven persons, among the number several ladies and children, were killed by the explosion of a mortar bomb. Twelve persons were wounded, five of whom are expected to die.

CAPT. CULBERTSON is one of the most bitter Republican partisans in the state. He is in favor of electing Grant President for a third term, and could show, if not ashamed to do so, the brass medal that was given to him for his loyalty to Grant at the Chicago convention. A vote for him is a vote for rings, monopolies, class legislation and the perpetuation of Stalwart rule in this country.

IF Captain Culbertson got a bronze medal for his adherence to general Grant at the Chicago convention, what kind of a brass collar should be given to Smith Hunt for his services to Judge Hargis? Will some of our democratic friends give us an answer?—New Republican.

Yes, one of the kind that the "independent" young editor of the New Republican wears. The kind that makes the wearer eat dirt when the Stalwart finger is crooked. And the kind, too, that prevents the man who wears it from spelling "adherence" with an "a" in the last syllable.

"SURPRISES."

The brilliant genius of the New Republican will be surprised to know that it is "descriptive" and not "discriptive," and that it is "stating" not "stateing."

The aforesaid genius will also be surprised to learn that "in justice to mechanics and working men" the ferry-boat does "run until six o'clock, at least."

And the young editor will be surprised, too, to learn that the following from his pen is about as clear as mud:

The grand jury will take action on his case, which at this writing (Friday noon) it will probably reach some time in the afternoon, being at that time engaged on the case of the Insko murder.

If all that is true he ought to be hanged.

This correct corrector of his neighbor's errors, will no doubt be startled to learn that coal has not "raised to ten cents." It is the price of the article that has done that.

The wise, though youthful editor, will be surprised to learn that "the beautiful and artistic sign of our office, which hangs at the door of the telegraph office," is not the sign of "our office," at all. The proper sign is the picture of a fretted little boy who is always in a state of displeasure at the trifling errors of his less intelligent neighbors.

This brilliant young man will be surprised to learn in addition to all this, that when a man is smitten on the cheek he turns the other—probably.

Report of the Grand Jury.

To the Honorable Judge of the Mason Circuit Court: We, the grand jury empaneled for the present (October) term of the Mason Circuit Court, respectfully report: That we have endeavored to faithfully inquire into all infractions of the law brought to our notice. We find the public buildings and offices in good order and well kept, no complaint being made before us on any account of same. We would especially mention that we find the jail in very neat, cleanly order and in as good sanitary condition, probably, as could be, under the circumstances.

The jail, we would report as insufficient and insecure, but having been previously condemned by the authorities, and regarded as only of temporary occupancy, (the new jail being in process of erection) we do not deem further specific report of same necessary. No further business being before us, nor appearing, we respectfully ask your honor that we be now discharged.

COUNTY POINTS.

MILLWOOD.

Miss Lyda Striger started last week to Danville, to attend the school for winter.

A great many of our farmers are having to move their weed out of the barn to give it an opportunity to strut so that it will not burst the sides of the barn.

Rev. Sims preached his first sermon at Helena to a very large congregation. We hope he may succeed in this part of the vineyard.

Elder Harkins has recovered almost from his late illness and will be able to fill his stand at Millcreek.

Prof. Calvert's school here is in a flourishing condition.

R. W. Wells & Co. are through prizing tobacco.

Jake Dunes was shot last week by some unknown person. The wound will probably prove fatal. Ben Robinson and Frank Ferguson were arrested, suspicion lying on them.

Don't whine about not having a fair chance. Throw a sensible man out of the window and he'll fall on his feet and ask the nearest way to his work. The more you have to beign with the less you will have in the end. Money you earn yourself is much better than any you get out of a dead man's supply. A scant breakfast in the morning of life whets the appetite for a feast later in the day. He who has tasted a sour apple will have the more relish for a sweet one. Your present want will make future prosperity all the sweeter. Eighteen pence has set up many a peddler in business and he has kept his carriage. As for the place you are cast in, don't find fault with that. You need not be a horse because you were born in a stable. If a bull tossed a man sky high he would drop into a good place. A hard-working young man with his wits about him will make money while others do working but lose it. X.

Minnie Hawk Selling Bouquets.

New York Times.

A smiling lady in a bright maroon dress, who wore a broad red hat from which swept long crimson plumes, graciously put bouquets composed of a flower and fern or two into the buttonhole of gentlemen's coats at from $1 to $10 a piece, at the fair in aid of St. Vincent's Hospital, in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, last evening. It was Minnie Hawk, the cantatrice, who came to assist Mrs. Phelps, whose presence made the floral temple of previous fairs such a great success. Mme. Hawk's fingers were nimble, but they were none too quick to meet the demand for flowers, which increased to a marvelous degree on her arrival.

A WILD WOMAN.

A Tale from North Carolina Like the Stories Told in the Great Forests of the Old Country.

Louisville Commercial.

For months past there have been rumors of a terrible apparition, which has ter orized all the women and children in Clear Creek township, near Charlotte, N. C. The women say that for two weeks they have been subject to terrifying visits in the absence of their husbands from a creature like a shiny, black negress with long hair and gleaming eyes. She asks in hardy distinguishable gibberish for a baby to eat, and making efforts to get hold of the children. The men, getting tired of the fears of their wives, determined to try and catch the creature, and for the last week crowds of farmers have been daily and nightly chasing her without success.

The first effort to catch her was made a week ago by John Roberts, a blacksmith. The wild creature had appeared several times at a fire which it was the habit of Casy Moore (colored) of the neighborhood to light after dark in the yard of his house for the preparation of his meals. Roberts was put to watch for her and she appeared even before the flames were well kindled. She presented such a wild look in the half-light and asked for food in such a wild fashion, that Roberts was demoralized. He recovered, however, made an outcry, and attempted to seize the woman, but she slipped through his hands and disappeared in the dark shadows of the woods.

One morning Maj. Stephen Coswell caught sight of the creature, and chased her across an open field. He was badly hurt in his efforts to keep up with her and reported that she outran a buck, and cleared four cornrows at a leap. That same night she was again enticed from the woods by the kindling of a fire, and was chased by thirty men without success. Capt. Marsh Allen later in the day met her in the neighborhood with her face torn and bleeding, and a long, bloody knife in her hand. The creature was naked and so unearthly and terrible looking to him that he says he is not sure it is a human being. Her hair reached almost to her feet, but was kinky, like that of the African. It is not mere fright which has caused the country people to organize in their attempts to catch the creature, which has been living in the forest and swamp fastnesses for a year or more. Some months ago it is reported an infant was spirited away from its parents' yard while they were in the corn field, and was never heard from, and the disappearance was from that section of the country in which the wild woman has been seen, and mothers, white and black are in terror for fear their little ones may also become food for the cannibal negress. Yesterday the farmers, some mounted and others on foot, assembled for the purpose of surrounding a swamp in which she is known to be hid.

There are 400 men ready for the chase. At first it was attempted to run her down with bloodhounds, but they refused to chase her, which deepened the superstitious feeling with which the men as well as the women of the community began to regard her. The men made the attempt to catch her, but without success. The excitement among the negroes and simple country folks is intense. By the more intelligent farmers from that section the theory is advanced that the creature is some half witted woman who has been so long hunted down that she lives in terror of all human beings, and, therefore, lives like an animal in the forests, her necessities having forced her to eat anything she can get, including even human flesh.

Soft Soap.

According to Census Bulletin No. 286, summarizing the amount and value of chemicals manufactured in the United States, we learn that this country produces annually 34,494,100 pounds of soft soap of the value of $358,280, or a trifle over a cent a pound. Of course we do not expect the census to be more than approximately accurate, but when it undertakes to reduce the amount and value of soft soap to such insignificant figures as are here furnished, its conclusions must be antagonized by the experience of the most ordinary observer. The consumption of soft soap is as universal as the consumption of water, though not always for the same purpose. In our intercourse with the world around us we come in contact with many a rusty hinge of human action that can be affected by this lubricator more readily than by anything else. If this will not move it, we may conclude that it is immovable. Soft soap is not alone an article of commerce; it is an article that gives to the wheels of commerce freedom of movement and overcomes friction. It is a part of the equipment of the man whose capital is largely in his powers of persuasion. The book agent carries it with him into the farmer's family, and it frequently enables him to loosen the rustiest clasp or the tightest purse strings. In seasons of speculation it is invaluable to the manipulators of stocks and bonds and miscellaneous investments. The boa constrictor covers his victim with saliva before swallowing it, and the suave and considerate dispenser of bonanza goods anoints the lambs with soft soap before he shears them, and frequently gives them a fresh application thereafter to prevent taking cold. The lobbyist carries it about him in large quantities, and we should say a cent a pound would be dear for it at such a lavish rate as he bestows it upon the representatives of the people, though he not unfrequently mixes it with "soap" of a more substantial character, and when he makes advances with such double action he is an almost invincibly attractive fellow. We are a Nation of 50,000,000, and from the tramp upon the street—who used all his soft soap upon others—to the President in his uneasy chair, there is a daily expenditure of soft soap by almost every individual, and no census official need tell us that any thirty odd million pounds a year will answer the purpose. We may find some of this evident deficiency accounted for under the head of "Taffy," but that will argue a defective system of classification. Taffy is milder in its effects, and is, or should be, used in less urgent situations. That it is indispensable we will allow, but it cannot be depended upon for extraordinary service, where a quick and powerful agent is required, as certainly as the stimulus we have been discussing. We are sorry the census cannot give us any more trustworthy figures on this point, for an accurate gauge of the consumption of all kinds of soft soap would be of great metaphysical, as well as material, interest.—Boston Post.

Pigeons in the German Coasting Service.

The Secretary of the German Navy has now definitely resolved to employ carrier pigeons in the coasting service, all the experiments with them made by the Prussian Government on the coast of the North Sea since 1876 to establish communication with the lightships lying off the coast having been successful. Such communication is of the utmost importance, not only for the lightships themselves, but likewise for incoming vessels if they become disabled or founder. Timely intimation of their distress is thus brought to land, and help of some kind may be sent them. The system of dispatching the pigeons has been most thoroughly tested, and found to answer admirably, especially during the severe gales at the mouth of the Eider last autumn on two lightships out at sea—one thirty-six leagues distant, and the other a galliot at anchor near the land. Two stations for carrier pigeons have now been established, by which important news may be sent to Tonning. Birds bred for the purpose have flown the distance of thirty-six leagues in thirty minutes, despite the heavy gale blowing at the time.—Cor.
